

PORSCHE 968 CONVERTIBLE

Low mileage "white" 1992 PORSCHE 968 CONVERTIBLE with matching combined leather/cloth bleu interior with electrical adjustable seats. And matching bleu electrical operated soft top. Power comes from the updated 944's straight four engine: 3.0 liter with 16 valves and the new Variocam technology producing 240 bhp and the Porsche's dual mode Tiptronic automatic gearbox. Both were recent developments. This made the 968 probably the best front-engine production car Porsche has ever made.

This 968 convertible is a very low mileage car with only 52175 km from new. It is recent import out of Japan. It is a desirable car that is actually fairly rare because of the limited production. Worldwide only 12500 cars were produced and only 4389 were convertibles.

The 968 is a styling combination of the outgoing 944 with elements from the more expensive 928. With numerous mechanical upgrades and new styling, with a more modern, streamlined look, swooping headlamp design and standard luxury.

The ideal combination of speed and practicality. And clean low mileages examples are a good investment.
