

LANCIA FULVIA COUPE SERIE 1 RALLY 1.3 S

1969 Lancia Fulvia serie 1 rally 1.3 s with only 2 previous owners

Owning a car like this is like mindfulness and a roller coaster rolled into one. You can sit and stare at it for hours just admiring the stance and design. Or take it out for a drive and feel your spine tingling with excitement. Like a dopamine shot to the brain. So it literally makes you happy.

A front-wheel drive design, with a transaxle ahead of the driver and a V4 engine lying on its side even farther up in the nose. This lends the Fulvia surprisingly adept road manners and potential. Paired with disc brakes, independent front suspension, and a gorgeous cabin, the car delivered its own special version of driving thrills.

All Lancia cars of the pre-Fiat era are overbuilt and engineered to an unbelievably high level. The details of their engines, suspension, and overall design are fascinating, and truly not found elsewhere. It delivers endless joy in its little details—spend a little time staring at the intricacies of the engine bay, and it all becomes clear.

This Fulvia is a first series rally 1.3 s meaning it has 91 hp instead of the standard 79 hp in the 1.2. The livery is spectacular and the interior has just the right patina not to want to change anything. Original Italian registration book included, this is a 2 owner car. Solid history, and recently had a big service.

The car is rust free and no visible signs of accidents. The body is very healthy and the paint is very bright and the livery in very good condition.

It has recently undergone a carb revision and a big service. Engine, brakes, exhaust are all in healthy condition.

She comes with her original seats and has a pair of bucket seats installed at the moment. Her
