

PORSCHE 930 TURBO 3.0L

1977 Porsche 930 Turbo 4 speed with 68.600 km

Wide cheeks, whale tail, 260 hp, big turbo lag, 4-speed manual transmission – these are the ingredients of the Porsche 911 Turbo 3.0, the legendary Porsche 930. It founded a dynasty of legendary sports cars that were perfectly suitable for everyday use, despite sometimes insane performance. Almost 45 years later, when somebody talks about “the Turbo”, it’s still clear, that it’s about the Porsche 911 Turbo. Coupled with its unique silhouette, this car is surrounded by a nimbus like no other sports car. Not least because of the sudden onset of torque, it needed attention and a knowledgeable hand. No surprise, it’s a sought-after classic nowadays.

The Uber-911, which was presented in Paris in 1974 and sold from 1975, is a rare specimen today. When you look at the production numbers, it becomes clear, that, simply put, there aren’t all that many. If you want one, better be quick. A total of just 2,850 Porsche 911 Turbo 3.0s were produced from 1975 to 1977. Porsche 911 Turbo 3.0s of its last year of production, 1977, can be recognized by the 16-inch Fuchs wheels and the black stone chip foil on the rear fenders.

We are presenting an absolutely stunning low km Turbo in her original toffee/cognac color combo and with a sunroof. Mechanically and cosmetically in a very high quality.

Owned for the last 10 years by one of our collector’s, she was bought from renowned Dr. Georg Konradsheim of Austria. No expense has been spared on this example. She was originally delivered to the states but the Engine has been revised to European spec. She is full euro spec.
