She was delivered new in 2000 to the warm and dry state of California where she was enjoyed for 15 years by her first owner before being transported back to Europe. Finished in a very deep blue metallic paintwork, she certainly looks as classy and stylish as a Rolls Royce should be. Her beige interior contrasts beautifully with the darker paint work, especially when the roof is open. When you open her roof, you have the feeling that you are in a luxurious yacht with the wind in your hair. Her chrome grill and chrome wheels add a very luxurious feel to her overall appearance.

Inside you will find a very plush beige leather interior. Her wooden interior trim is quintessential to a Rolls Royce interior and really makes her an even better place to spend many more fun miles in. During her lifetime she was upgraded with a sound system to add to the overall experience.

Everything you touch feels special and built to a very high standard.

Mechanically she is as good as she looks. Her 6.75L V8 engine has plenty of torque and power for any kind of situation. Mated to this engine is a smooth shifting automatic gearbox. A Rolls Royce is not renowned for its handling or sporty driving, but with her freshly revised steering rack she drives as good as the day she left the factory.
